

PREACHING FROM THE BOOK OF JAMES

GEORGE B. DAVIS
Criswell College, Dallas, TX 75201

What's wrong with preaching today? Suggestions are as numerous as the analysts. But one deficiency which appears on the list of almost everyone is this--the lack of substantial biblical content. Much preaching today is devoid of solid biblical exposition. Consequently, the slow but steady resurgence of expository preaching evident today is most encouraging. Pastors, in increasing numbers, are recognizing that expository preaching, more so than any other type, leads a congregation into a submission to the Word of God.

Technically speaking, an expository sermon is one in which both major and subpoints are drawn directly from a passage of Scripture. Effective expository preaching comprises the thorough exegesis, relevant application, and vivid illustration of a given passage of Scripture. Expository preaching in its purest form is taking a book of the Bible and preaching through it paragraph by paragraph. The intent and purpose of this article is both to encourage and enable students and pastors to preach through the Book of James.

I. General Preparation

General preparation should be started several months before the series is to begin. General preparation should be done in at least five areas:

Step One: Thorough Familiarity With the Book

Read the Book of James through, not just once or twice, but numerous times. The use of cassette tapes is also recommended. Thorough familiarity with the epistle enables the preacher to make the sermons come alive in delivery.

Step Two: Gathering of Helpful Tools for Exposition

Every preacher must remember that no amount of scholarly research ever becomes a substitute for the teaching ministry of the Holy Spirit. It is far more important to become a "Bible student" than a "commentary student."

Nevertheless, we will want to avail ourselves of the most helpful tools at our disposal to make the Word of God both relevant and exciting for the people. The reader is encouraged to see the review article on bibliographic material for the study of James in this issue.

Step Three: Determine the Historical Background

When preaching through any book of the Bible, attention must always be given to such matters as: (1) authorship; (2) recipients, (3) date and place of writing; (4) theme and purpose; and (5) special or unique features.

In addition to the introductory material found in all major commentaries, dictionary and encyclopedia articles on both "James" and "The Epistle of James" will prove immensely profitable in ascertaining the historical background of the book.

Step Four: Develop a Paragraph Outline of the Book

The most logical method for preaching through the Epistle of James is to do it paragraph by paragraph. Thus, the expositor should develop a paragraph outline of the Book of James, comparable to the one suggested below:

Paragraph Number	Scripture Reference	Summary Statement
1	1:1	Salutation
2	1:2-8	The trials/tribulations of the believer
3	1:9-11	The proper attitude toward material things
4	1:12-18	The temptations of the believer
5	1:19-25	Contrast between the hearer and the doer
6	1:26-27	Contrast between empty religion and genuine religion
7	2:1-13	The sin of partiality
8	2:14-26	The relationship of faith and works
9	3:1-11	Controlling the tongue
10	3:13-18	Contrast between false and true wisdom

11	4:1-10	Warning against worldliness
12	4:11-12	Warning against censoriousness
13	4:13-17	Warning against presumption
14	5:1-6	Coming judgment against the oppressive rich
15	5: 7-11	Patience/endurance amidst affliction
16	5:12	Truthfulness in speech
17	5:13-18	Praying for the sick
18	5:19-20	Restoring the erring brother

II. Specific Preparation

Once the foundation of general preparation has been laid, we must then turn our attention to the week-by-week exegesis of each paragraph and the development of the sermon therefrom.

Step One: Exegete Each Individual Paragraph

1. Study the passage in English. Meditate on it; brood over it; pray over it; ask God to help you see what is there.
2. Make observations. Note the key words; write down every spiritual truth observed.
3. If possible, work through the paragraph in the Greek New Testament. If not, utilize study helps available for those without a working knowledge of Greek.
4. Consult exegetical commentaries. This should be reserved to last in order to allow the Holy Spirit to reveal the truths of Scripture personally.

Step Two: Formulate the Exegetical Idea

- I. The prayerful and diligent exegesis of a paragraph will enable the expositor to determine the author's main intent and purpose in the passage.
2. Writing out the exegetical idea as clearly and concisely as possible helps to clarify the sermon topic.

Step Three: Develop the Sermon Outline

- I. Pinpoint the spiritual principles and concepts used by the author to develop and support his major thesis. These will usually become the major and/or subpoints of the message.
2. Utilize homiletical commentaries for assistance in developing the sermon outline.
3. Normally the sermon should have between two and five major points.

4. Alliteration is helpful to the memory, but accuracy should never be sacrificed for it.

Step Four: Build the Sermon (Three Essential Ingredients)

1. Exegesis

- a. Exegesis of the Word of God should be the core of every sermon.
- b. Every major point should be drawn from the text.

2. Application

- a. Spiritual truths/principles must be conscientiously applied to the needs of the people.
- b. Learn to apply each spiritual truth to specific needs within the congregation.

3. Illustration

- a. Illustrate the sermon with vivid, cogent experiences to which the people can easily relate.
- b. As a general rule, each major point of the sermon should be illustrated.
- c. In addition, illustrations are effective in both the introduction and conclusion.

Step Five: Write Out the Sermon

1. Introduction

- a. It is probably best to write out the introduction in paragraph form.
- b. This practice gives us poise as we begin the sermon.

2. Body of the Sermon

- a. The body of the sermon is more easily remembered if it is written out in outline form.
- b. The outline should not be too highly structured; remember that the sermon is to be heard, not read.

3. Conclusion/ Invitation

- a. Like the introduction, the conclusion/invitation should be written in paragraph form.
- b. Careful attention should be given to the theological content of the invitation.

After we have prepared in this way, we are now ready to deliver the sermon. After we have prayed and meditated over the exegetical outline, we are ready to preach the sermon with the enabling power of the Holy Spirit. We hope the following outlines can be beneficial to the readers as they prepare to preach through the Book of James.
